CLARESHOLM LOCAL NEWS

Born, on October 15th, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Huddle, a son.

Clarehsholm teachers are attending the teachers' convention at Calgary this week.

The Massey Harris business is being moved to a new location, opposite the Rex theater.

The ladies of St. John's Guild wish to announce the date of their annual bazaar for Saturday, December 5th.

"The Air Mail," with Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., at the Rex theater Friday and Saturday nights this week.

On the 18th the weather took a turn for the better. Chinook winds have dried out the grain sufficiently to permit threshing, which is now general in this district.

Arrangements have been made to announce election results in the Odd Fellows' Hall on next Thursday night. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made, to cover expenses.

This has been the wettest fall ever known in southern Alberta. Wheat grades have been lowered by the long continued soaking. Indications now point to more favorable weather.

The regular meeting of the U. F. W. A. will be held in the rest room Friday afternoon, October 30th. All members bring your fancy work, preferably a piece of embroidery you are not familiar with, crocheting, tatting, knitting, etc.—See.

Twenty-four British farm boys arrived in town from overseas on Thursday morning, to attend the School of Agriculture. A party of twenty went to the Vermilion school and a party of twenty-one to the Olds school. It is expected that with the British boys, the registration at the three Schools of Agriculture this year will run close to four hundred.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morrow and daughter, Miss Myrtle Lee, on Tuesday evening for Los Angeles, California, where they will visit relatives. They will spend the winter in California. It had been their intention to motor all the way, but the impassable roads necessitated shipping their car to Campbell, from which point they will finish the journey by motor.

At the Guide meeting on Wednesday night a real good chance came up for the girls, to show their skill at first aid. About 8:30 o'clock a boy rushed in asking the help of the girls for a boy who lay injured on the road under his bicycle. It appeared that he had a broken ankle. A stretcher was hastily improvised and the unfortunate boy was carried to the hall. However, the boy seems all right again as he was seen walking down street Friday morning. Girl Guides Be Prepared.

Married, at the Travellers' Inn, Clarehsholm, October 16th, 1925, George Wesley, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Leppard of Clarehsholm, and Lila Leona, daughter of Mr. James McMurray of Cardston, Alberta. The bride was attended by Miss Rachel Leppard, sister of the groom, and Edgar Abbey was best man. Bishop Toome of the Latter Day Saints church officiated. The young couple's many friends gathered at the home of the groom's parents that evening to wish them a long and happy life. They will make their home for the present with the groom's parents.

School Fair Scholarships

The scholarships offered by the Department of Agriculture to the boy and girl winning the highest number of points at the School Fair, based on exhibits other than school work, were won by Evelyn Lane, Cardnforth, and Horace Davidson, Meadow Creek. The latter was also the successful boy last year, and as he is not permitted to attend the short course at the School of Agriculture a second time the boy winning the next highest number of points, Fred Davis of Northern Light, will be awarded the scholarship.

The diploma to be given by the Department of Agriculture to the school securing the highest average of points was won by the Northern Light school. This school was also successful in winning the Haslam Shield, awarded the rural school or room of the town school which secured the highest average per pupil, of points for school work only. Congratulations are due the teachers and pupils of the Northern Light school for the splendid showing in the School Fair work. Other schools that made a commendable score were Cardnforth, Greenbank and Meadow Creek, but the higher attendance of these schools reduced the average number of points obtained.

Robt. Windecker Dies in Montana

(Have Daily Promoter)

Robt. Windecker, age 68, and for 15 years a farmer of the Havre district, passed away at 8:30 a.m. Monday, September 7, of bronchial pneumonia.

Mr. Windecker was born at North Cayuga, Ontario, July 11, 1857. He moved to Detroit, Minnesota, in 1876, being one of the early pioneers there.

In 1882 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Green of Howard City, Mich. Two children were born to the union; a son, Nellie McDaniel, and George Windecker survive with their mother, all of whom live in Havre.

Mr. and Mrs. Windecker resided in Frazee, Minn. for 28 years. During this time Mr. Windecker was engaged in farming, later being in the transfer business.

In 1904 the family moved to Clarehsholm—Alberta, where he was also an early settler. He lived near Clarehsholm until 1910 when he moved to Havre and was engaged in farming until seven years ago, when he was stricken with paralysis and gradually failed in health until the time of his death.

Beside the immediate family to mourn his death, he is survived by three sisters and four brothers, Mrs. Catherine Smedley of Fort Erie; Mrs. Alice Bradt, North Cayuga; Mrs. Ben Tapp, Canfield; George and Herbert, Dunville; Ruben and Peter, North Cayuga, all of Ontario, Canada.

Funeral services were held from the Holland chapel and the burial was made in Hillland cemetery. The beautiful floral pieces were given, testily to the esteem in which he was held by his many friends.

St. Andrew's Society

The annual meeting of this society will be held in the G. W. A. rooms on Saturday evening, 7th November, at 8 p.m. A full attendance of members is requested.

EIGHT REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD SUPPORT THE KING (LIBERAL) GOVERNMENT

1. The Liberal Government under the leadership of Rt. Hon. William Mackenzie King took office in December, 1921, pledged to strict economy in government.

The King Government has reduced expenditure each year until it is spending today only three dollars for every four dollars the Meighen (Conservative) Government spent for public services in 1921.

2. The King Government has reduced the net national debt by three million dollars and the annual toll of interest paid from the pockets of breadwinners and homesteaders in direct or indirect taxation.

The King Government has reduced the cost of living by reducing taxation and through reducing the cost of production in the four basic industries, farming, lumbering, mining and fishing, by cutting the duty on the instruments of production, by cutting the sales tax, and lowering the cost on raw materials used in manufacture.

The Government has further reduced the cost of living by greatly reducing or cutting off entirely the sales tax on cereals, meats, milk, food, clothing, footwear and on many other necessities of life.

3. During the term of office of the King Government a vigorous Liberal policy has been followed of extending markets for Canadian products and developing avenues of trade. The fact that the Meighen (Conservative) Government was in office, the exports from Canada exceeded imports by a large margin. The year ending March 31st, 1925, Canada sold to other countries $284,000,000 worth of products more than it had bought from them. The balance in Canada's favor has steadily increased.

4. The Canadian dollar in international trade has recently in four years ago bought only eighty cents worth of goods over in the United States. Before the end of the year 1924 as high as 100 cents. Fully restored financial credit of Canada, under sound business administration, the Canadian dollar measured up to one hundred cents with the highest currency in the world. On April 30th, 1925, the Canadian dollar was quoted at a little better than a hundred per cent in international exchange, in other words "at a premium."

5. Immediately the first session of the new Parliament was opened in 1922 with Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King at the helm, the promises of the Liberals were kept. A special committee of parliament was appointed to investigate all phases of the work in connection with pension and re-establishment of returned soldiers.

Carrying out recommendations of the parliamentary committee after parliament prorogued, a special commission was appointed headed by a returned soldier, Col. Palston of Nova Scotia, to further investigate the workings of the Pension Act, to hear complaints of individual soldiers and to re-adjust matters wherever possible.

Amendments to the Pension Act introduced by Hon. Dr. H. Beland, on behalf of the Liberal Government during the last session of parliament and made effective in legislation include among others the following provisions:

(a) To make permanent the bonus which up to the present has been temporary and from year to year. The Act as amended provides for extending the pension to include the bonus.

(b) Extension by two years of the time for making application for pension for disability.

(c) Provision for a small addition to the pension on amputation cases to cover extra clothing required owing to wear and tear resulting from artificial limbs.

(d) During the past session provision was also made in accordance with recommendation of the Ralston commission for distribution of the canteen fund to disabled soldiers and dependents of the fallen. A similar bill introduced by the Government was killed two years in succession by the Senate which has a large Conservative majority.

6. Through provision made in the 1924 session of parliament by government measure, government inspection of banks has become a reality to prevent the recurrence of such a catastrophe as the Home Bank failure.

7. The attitude of the Liberal Government with regard to its responsibility for the welfare of ALI, the people of Canada was expressed by the Prime Minister, Mr. King, in these words in his 1925 Budget speech of April 30: "Our position is that if you are going to have protection then protect the people as a whole and not merely a favored few."

8. National unity based on national justice has been the keynote of the King Government policies and administration, echoed by the Prime Minister in concluding his 1924 Budget speech on May 15th as follows: "We have viewed with a good deal of concern the division which has sprung up between eastern and western Canada. We have sought therefore a policy which would bring about national unity and demonstrate a community of interests. We feel we are helping to unite Canada, to promote a community of interests between the different parts of our country and in this way build up a stronger, a more progressive and united Canada, to be a part of the great British Empire to which we belong, a country that will be of service to its people, its king and of service as well to the community of nations of which it is a part."

To the Electors in Macleod Constituency

The argument is constantly met with in this campaign, that it is useless to support the Progressives because, it is said, they have no political future, viz: can never attain to power and therefore exert no influence on the course of events and policies.

An impression is sought to be created that the ideals of the Progressive movement have made no headway in Eastern Canada. Nothing can be further from the truth. True the first wave of superficial enthusiasm and support has passed, alike in the East as in the West, but there remains a solid and increasing body of public opinion definitely and for all time committed to the furtherance of the ideals and policies which gave birth to the movement. In old Ontario these are championed by two powerful newspapers, The Ottawa Citizen and The Toronto Sun. Even The Toronto Globe Shows ever increasing indications of the impress of the new political thought. Clubs have sprung up from Montreal to Winnipeg to study the political situation and seek a way of escape from party bondage and partisan government.

In the early stages of the movement it was only desired to seek to elect a body of men free from party domination, bound only by the opinions of their constituents, indebted only to them for financial support. Early unexpected successes alone are responsible for a belief that complete political power is desirable. This is something that leaves room for argument. Rather should we at present seek to hold the balance between the old line parties in the interests of the people at large, and such to some extent was the position held during the life of the past parliament. That in spite of some mistakes due to the launching of new and untried ideas on the political seas, this was successful is proven by a review of what was in part accomplished.

1. Restoration of the Grain Rates of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement in the session of 1922.
2. Retention of these rates in the session of 1923.
3. Forced the hands of the government in 1924 and secured a lowering of duties on many articles including agricultural implements.
4. Constantly kept the need for an adequate system of Rural Credits before parliament and secured a partial success in the passage of such a measure at the last session, to be later disallowed by the senate.
5. Challenged the supremacy of the Bankers' Association and for the first time secured amendments to the Bank Act other than those sponsored by this association.
6. Kept constantly before the public Western needs.

The official records in Hansard and the editorial comments of the eastern press justify the belief that it was the independent action of the Progressive group alone that secured these concessions, and these alone are sufficient to justify the continued support of the public.

It is charged that a third party is a hindrance to good government and leads to instability of policies. True, under pressure of a third party, the government vacillates between allegiance to the wishes of the people on the one hand and to dictation by the interests that supply the party funds on the other. No party censors by threat of withdrawal of support from the member can control his vote. Not only is this the case, but like rogues like and independent minded individuals, consequently it is more difficult to control the sincere and independent thinking member to be found in all parties in the presence of this influence; and on popular issues, such as the grain rates, members get restive to party control in the face of the publicity created by the determined action of the independent group. Certainly the old party members are agreed—with reason—that the third party is a menace. Ascertain menace to the control of the party machine with its hidden sources of contributions, denied by one author as "Graft in its most pernicious form." It cannot but be noted by any observing voter in this campaign that there is a most lavish expenditure for election purposes by both of the old line parties. Candidates are nominated in each constituency regardless of hopes of success. Paid organizers tour the country. Pages of advertising appear in the press. The mails are flooded with propaganda literature. Where is the source of these funds? Who are the individuals or corporations who contribute to it? Why do they do so? How do they expect to be repaid? These are questions for each individual voter to ask himself and study their bearing on his individual welfare.

To copy from an editorial appear in the Western Home Monthly in the last issue, "What are the electors of the West to do at this time? They must turn from the old parties to men who will give some thought to the West as its needs. Our representation is now so great that we can dictate to the old line parties, since these are about to break fifty-fifty. Every constituency should seek a member that is sound on such questions as control of western resources by the provinces, the lowering of the tariff, a vigorous immigration policy, the control of the banking business, the co-operation without amalgamation of the two great railway systems, the lessening of the freight rates for the West. Every man elected should be a man of his word, capable of rising above party and sound on all issues that affect the West. It is as clear as day that the government at Ottawa, in the minds of both old line parties, is for Middle Canada, the Maritime Provinces and the West are unworthy of consideration. So let us to our own men—strong and reliable—who will keep the faith."

The Board of Directors,
Macleod U. F. A. Federal Constituency Association.

5000 Facts About Canada

"5000 Facts About Canada" is famous as a rich storehouse of information about the Dominion. It is the production of Frank Veigh, the recognized authority in this country, a writer of the "2nd annual edition is out for 1925, and will, as in former years, be sold at a price of one cent per page. Fifty chapters—"Agriculture" to "Yukon"—include a series of striking facts presented in a crisp, terse form that fastens them on the mind. The 1925 issue contains much new matter, including a striking comparative table of our national growth during the quarter of a century since 1900. The book may be secured at leading dealers, or by sending 35 cents to the Canadian Facts Publishing Co., 588 Huron Street, Toronto. He who would know Canada will find this wonderful little book a means to that end.

Airship Not Yet Rival of Seacraft

Oriflight Have Not Been Constructed To Stand Strain

The United States will be spurred by the abandonment of the dirigibles efforts at conquering the air, England's press believed.

London papers agreed that the United States would draw from the dirigibles for inspiration to build an airship strong enough to rise out any storm. But the British themselves run out of the situation the lesson that the airship is not the rival of seacraft, at least not at present nor for a long time is come.

Some papers declared it was hardly worth while for the present generation to consider designing an airship capable of carrying heavy or bulky cargoes.

Dirigible experts related out that airship construction still is, to a large extent, guesswork, at least insofar as determination of actual strain and stress on the various framework is concerned. Only experience in building such craft gives an idea of the strain to which they are subjected. It is admitted that it cannot be worked out with mathematical rigour as, for instance, in the case of bridge spans hanging. The experts hope some disaster will give air technicians to master this phase.

They drew the lesson that accurate weather and meteorological information must be supplied to dirigibles if they are to stand storms such as might be encountered in the Atlantic. They held that if Commander Langford had had proper warning his craft could have ploughed past the great mass of being caught in the midst of it.

To Protect Fur-Bearing Animals May Be Close Season For Beaver in Manitoba

S. V. Jackson, professor of botany and biology, Manitoba University, has been travelling in Northern Manitoba collecting information for the Provincial Government in possible closing the survey of natural resources. Prof. Jackson is especially interested in the game branch of the work with a view to the conservation of fur-bearing animals.

Prof. Jackson stated that north of the 54th parallel, which had formerly produced 50 per cent. of the total number of muskrats for the province, production is now reduced to 25 per cent. of this period. Beaver has been reduced in even greater percentages. To poison and trapping out of season is chiefly utilized in the fur reduction.

As a solution for the difficulty Professor Jackson thought that the Government would consider the possibility of putting a close season on beaver for five years and also restrict the number of trappers' licenses in the fur producing sections of the province in one-year residents only. Trapping of muskrats is now prohibited during the fall of each year.

Hold Record For Meanness

Great Uncle of Viscount Lascelles Knew How to Save Money

That fine old Yorkshireman, the Earl of Harwood, is now 78. Lord Harwood, of course, is the father of Viscount Lascelles, Princess Mary's husband. Lord Harwood had no fortune made in his own time. His father, who left him millions to Viscount Lascelles. The anquits was so mean that even when the newspapers were filled with news of the great war he preferred to save his penny in a public library. He voluntarily endured rent starvation of a third of his income was about £100,000 a year. One of his clubs declined to permit him to buy his meat raw and bring it to the club to be cooked.

Tried Farmers

The life of a Canadian farmer makes appeal to Lord Edward Montagu, the 19-year-old son of the Duke of Devonshire, and he has come to Lord Reiney's ranch in Saskatchewan. He found there the Duke de Nemours, nephew of the King of the Belgians, who went out some time ago to a people, accompanied by a nephew of the Earl of Derby.

Strange Places For Letter Boxes

There are many letter boxes in strange places in London. One to be found under the dormer of a house. In one locality, the postman when he has a letter for the top floor of a building, gives a short knock on the box to let down on a string from the top window and the letter hauled up.

Good Market For Umbrellas

Umbrellas have grown to be an important item in the export business to East Africa, where they are used by natives for protection against the sun and rains. More than half the umbrellas imported come from Great Britain.

Thrilling Feat Recalled

Blindfold Carried Man Over Niagara River on Tight Ropes

At the request of a reader, who had been reminded by the attempt of a baby to swim the Niagara River from the Falls to inquire when Hilda crossed them on a tight rope, and were true that the Canadian Standard drew the story of the feat, that the man Hilda carried on his back sixty-two years ago was Harry McClelland, who for some years was Hilda's manager and assistant in circus work in several countries. McClelland got $1,000 for his share in the performance.

The rope, although drawn as tight as possible by a winchman with 150 lbs. on the American side, sagged 50 feet in the middle, where it was only 27 feet above the water. For 60 feet of its length, too, it swung in the wind and the draught from the falls with a fall from side to side of 20 feet.

When he was fully over the water, Hilda carried the man over the rope with his hands on Hilda's shoulders. He then climbed on his shoulders and the trip was started again. McClelland's description was:

"The rope was comparatively steady but there were no dry lands. We had made about ten feet on this when Hilda looked in an effort to walk straight, the balance pole going first only up and down. He had lost his balance. In that awful moment his head and his legs began to swing. He fell, and I strictly followed his shoulders, to stay or fall with him as might happen. Hilda was a real superior to instruct. Unable to resist his balance, he ran along the rope, the balance pole going first only up and down for 50 feet, when we reached the first guy line, and it snapped, but with wonderful agility he caught the rope, and on reaching it, gave me the order, 'Get down, quick!'

"After I mounted his back and in a few minutes we walked up the incline of the rope to the hand. It seemed a lifetime, but it was just 45 minutes."

Truly, there are enough thrills in reading the story without watching another feat like it!

Look Coffee Beans To India

Muhammadan Saint Carried Small Supply From Arabia

In these days, says a Bombay paper, when coffee is bringing the highest prices on record, the planters are not ungrateful to the Muhammadan saint who is said to be responsible for taking the coffee beans to India. The legend says that Isha Dinda, a Muselman from South India, made the sacred pilgrimages to Mecca, and while there he obtained possession of a small supply of coffee beans which he decided to bring back with him. He carried off a number of them, and the road he held fast to his seeds, though he does not appear to have been fully acquainted with the properties of the plant. He decided to land his beans on the hills in the Kadur district of Mysore state, hills which are now well known as the source of the coffee supply to live as a Muselman farmer or saint.

One of his first acts was to plant the coffee seeds he had brought with him. He selected a suitable place near Attingia, and by and by the plants grew until they yielded a few beans. It is said that Isha Dinda was himself surprised at the superior effect of the beans, though he must have heard something about the size to which the beans were put in Arabia. The beverage made proved most popular, and gradually a considerable grain was opened.

Power Shovel Breaks Record

Loaded 3,750 Cubic Yards of Rock on Cars in Eight Hours

All known records for moving material with a power shovel were recently broken when an electric giant in a southern mine loaded 3,750 cubic yards of rock on to cars in one eight-hour shift.

To accomplish this task the eighty-ton electric shovel, with its eight-cylinder diesel digger had to reach down, lift itself, rise, swing around and empty into a car at the rate of once every minute and a half throughout the period. The work moved by this electric titan would make a six-inch pavement on a eleven-foot road a quarter of a mile long, and to load the same amount of rock by hand it would require an army of 1,500 shovel men.

The electric shovel was operated by two men—Tully Bulletin.

Wireless In Swiss Alps

Has Replaced Dogs As Rescuer Of Lost Travelers

Among the latest developments in wireless is its introduction into the Alps as a means of summoning rescue parties to render assistance to tourists. This information comes from Geneva, and the dispatch adds that the innovation, it is believed, will save many lives. That broadcast purpose has already been achieved on sea, and it is only natural that wireless should also be utilized in the mountainous wastes of ice and snow or in the desert wastes of South Africa. The nature of life is a permanent condition, but wireless in the Alps may rob them of one of the elements of tourism exhibited in their recesses. The mind reverts to juvenile days and to the stories that came out of Switzerland telling of the Hapsburgs on the Great St. Bernard in the Valais passes between that country and Italy. They told of the noble breed of dogs, reared by the monastery and trained by the brothers to search for and relieve lost travelers. Youthful fancy could even hear the barking of the bell from the dog's collar to attract attention to his mission of mercy.

Not so much needed of those dogs in modern times, though they may no longer be needed, at least so frequently as they were at a time when the Alps had not become the favorite resort they are today. If any help in the service for which they were originally bred, the introduction of wireless may mean the end of a gripping chapter of Alpine history. The St. Bernard himself may survive as an ornament of the show bench, but without that look in his brown eyes that revealed his mission.

Challenges Wehman For Championship

English Town Crier Is Confident He Holds Title

Old-time 'town criers' have not all disappeared from England. That is proved by the fact that John Wehman, of William Anglia, has challenged another, William Powell, to prove himself entitled to the proud title of 'town crier' of the 'Champion Town Crier of England.'

Anglia is crier at the town of Marlborough, while Powell is crier at the Welsh community of Penrhywle. The comment made here is that Powell could make good his claim by simply making the latter cry: 'Penrhywle-bark.'

Should Be Thorough

At present it seems to be taken for granted that if a man is able to purchase a car he is also able to drive it, but the two do not necessarily go together at all, and the permit to drive a car should be thorough enough and have ample enough to stop a man from driving the car he owns if he is not a competent driver. London Mail writes.

A Queer Coincidence

All known records for moving material with a power shovel were recently broken when an electric giant in a southern mine loaded 3,750 cubic yards of rock on to cars in one eight-hour shift.

Germany's Potash Industry

Business Has Shown Remarkable Increase Over Pre-War Record

Potash concerns are among the very few German industries that have not suffered materially as a result of the post-war financial and industrial crisis. They not only have not suffered, but have succeeded in almost tripling their business.

During the first six months of the year 1922 the amount of potash sold by the German industries amounted to 720,000 tons, which is almost three times the amount disposed of during the same period of the preceding year and also represents a vast increase over the total of 520,000 tons of the pre-war period of 1912. Every ounce of the stock left over from last winter has been sold, and all the concerns today are working at full blast.

This showing of the German potash business is regarded as quite remarkable in view of the fact that Germany's world monopoly of the business was recently broken by the loss of the Anatolian mines in France, followed by the discovery of promising potash deposits in Texas, Spain, Galicia, the Balkans, Mexico and elsewhere.

Women in Athletic Field

Canadian Girls Are Invited to Compete in Belgium

There is something significant in the complimentary luncheon tendered recently in Toronto to the members of the Canadian women's team and to them which competed in England this summer. Not much attention has been paid by the nation to women's athletics until this year, when the invitation arrived from the British Women's Athletic Association to send a Canadian team to compete. The proposal to form a Canadian Women's Athletic Union has been given impetus by the fine impression created by the Canadian team in England. Officers of the English organization have offered their services in connection with the establishment of a national organization for women athletes in Canada, and a Canadian team has been invited to compete in Belgium next summer.

Guardman Very Much Alive

French Girl Convinced When He Winked At Her

London is full of tourists from practically all countries, and most of the overseas visitors never fail to be interested in the stalwart guardmen on duty at the Tiaro Guards headquarters in Whitehall.

Some stars at them deliberately, and one French girl refused to believe one motionless figure was alive. She stood alone and gazed harder, then suddenly joined her English friends looking somewhat dazed. "She explained that the soldier was real after all—he had deliberately winked at her."

New Device Protects Hat

Device by which a felt or straw hat cannot blow off by the wind is said to have been invented. It consists of a small moulded button fastened to the crown of the hat, and a button in the front of the crown. When the hat is placed on the head, the button sticks to the forehead on the vacuum. The wind is kept in out of sight when worn, and it said to be convenient.

Famous Englishmen's Graves Are Neglected

Covered With Weeds, Few Know Of Their Existence

All over England there are forgotten graves of great Englishmen. Tombstones have fallen; earth has washed away; weeds overgrown the lettering; and, forgotten and neglected, some of the greatest men in history sleep their last sleep in obscurity.

One can visit any cemetery in London and find graves that are neglected at the condition of the graves. No one seems to care. Sometimes there is an endowment for perpetuity; otherwise there are just weeds and moss and forgetfulness.

Mr. Algonquin Ashton, who has rendered more service to the memories of the great men of former days than any other of his time, says, "Kensal Green is one of the most interesting cemeteries in London. Close by the tombs of the Dukes of Cambridge and Sussex is the last resting place of Lord Byron. Thackeray lies near Leach and Dicky Doyle, Francis Thompson, Anthony Trollope, Adelaide Ann Procter, Mrs. Cradock, Leigh Hunt are but a few of the well-known names on graves now nearly forgotten."

Rarely are these tombs visited; few know of their existence; but Kensal Green is not alone in its obscurity. In Chelsea Park Church, for instance, are buried William and Elizabeth, in Richmond Churchyard the remains of Keats.

Almost everywhere hares the forgotten. In 1722, Captain George Vancouver, one of Captain Cook's assistants, discovered Vancouver Island. His first trip was to the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and he was buried in the village churchyard.

A report that the greatest difficulty in finding the grave, although an imposing tablet in the church commemorates Vancouver's exploits. So overgrown and neglected is the grave that a party of local Vancouver pilgrims photographed the wrong tombstone the other day.

Industry Key To Success

Places Worth Reaching Have To Be Won By Work

Fred W. Sargent, new president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, gave the key to success the one word—industry.

That's comforting, especially for the young man or woman who is started at the bottom with much concern and wonders if real, hard work can ever be noticed in a world that seems to place so much reliance on "trout."

Just industry. Not talk, or other policies, or ability to play a good game of golf will your superior—just industry.

The men who get to those places that are worth getting to almost without exception are the ones whose hard work took them there. It's the only way.—Vancouver Sun.

Urges Lifting Embargo On Apples

Requests for the lifting of an embargo on Japanese apples which has been enforced for the last five years, have been filed with the Japanese government, according to consular officials at Vancouver. The State of the new crop are to be shipped to Japan as soon as possible, and if they are not sold there, they will be sold in the United States. The embargo will be lifted, it is expected.

American Farmers Flocking to Canada

Land At Bargain Prices and Big Wheat Yield Proved Lure

American tenant farmers are flocking to Western Canada, where plenty of large farms are being placed at bargain prices. So long as farming was highly remunerative in the United States these tenants were willing to work and pay their rent, but now things are somewhat slow from an agricultural standpoint. In the republic and the tenants have developed ambitions to become land owners in the Canadian west.

J. Bruce Walker, who is in charge of immigration from the American west, says that this year the exodus to Canada is 50 per cent. greater than a year ago. The Canadian authorities have been promoting cheap excursions from various states into Canada to show how cheaply farms can be bought in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and once the Yankees see the lands, they want to buy them.

The huge Canadian wheat crop is also attracting many settlers, it being a large factor in the decision to what the conditions of farming generally, the wheat is as good as gold.

Indians Of Guatemala Very Superstitious

Many Mysterious Rites Are Part Of Every Life

The Indians of Guatemala are born, live and die in the midst of superstition. His crop is planted, cultivated and harvested with mysterious rites. When the Indian from the upland visits "In Terra caelestis," he carries with him a certain position known only to him. If the stone is unburied upon its return it indicates that his wife has been unfaithful during his absence.

The moon plays an important part in the life of the Guatemalan. Harvesting, nearly all farming operations are influenced by various phases of the moon. The Indians are of the belief where the moonlight could shine in his face—"It makes one feel like," he will tell you.

One frequently sees the Indian or Ladino in the street or on the trail with a large black patch on the temple. This is a place where a snake has bitten, and it is pasted on the forehead to cure or prevent headache. It is a common sight to see the forehead of the family adorned with a necklace of dried lemons, designed to protect him from such ill as beset dogdom.

Interesting Discovery In England

Workmen Have Unearthed Portion Of Great Roman Wall

A very interesting discovery is reported from a place called Wighton in Cumberland, England, where workmen while carrying out a drainage in connection with a water scheme, came across obstructive masonry about the time of the great wall. Further investigation led to the conclusion that the masonry is a portion of the famous Roman wall. The wall, which extended some seventy miles from the Solway Firth to the English coast, was built by the Romans, and it is said to be about five feet deep and right or nine feet wide, and built after the Roman manner—not of solid masonry, but with facing on each side of large wrought freestone, the space between being filled in with stones and rubble. Although the Roman wall dates back to the second century the workmen had considerable difficulty in cutting through the mass.

Irish Immigrants Coming

Prospects for the emigration of many Irish people and their families to ranches in Canada are apparent at the present time, in the opinion of Arthur Mullin, Irish immigrant, who is now purchasing dairy farms in Manitoba. Mr. Mullin plans to return to Canada at an early date and will be accompanied by a large group of Irish immigrants.

Royal Fair Entries

The management of the Royal Winter Fair to be held in Toronto, Nov. 12 to 15, recently announced that all the provisions in the food section will be represented in the livestock exhibits in the coming event. It was also intimated that the Irish Columbia Government will forward an exhibit of trout as well as one of livestock.

Shingle Roof Lasts 37 Years

Thirty-seven years was the life of a shingle roof that T. C. Van Eaton, a pioneer after whom the city of Eatonville, Fla., was named, renewed this summer. The structure houses a department store, whose proprietor declared that the shingles were so good that they had been damaged by leakage. The shingles were split out of cedar cut near Eatonville.
